Who can be a defamation plaintiff?

Who can be a defamation plaintiff?

- Any natural living person
  - If you've heard "You can't defame the dead," that's actually true.
- Non-natural persons (e.g., corporate entities) can be defamed. (This is often called "trade libel.")
  - But various doctrines make it more difficult for these entities to win defamation suits.

Has the plaintiff been identified?

Of and concerning the plaintiff

- Explicit identification suffices.
- Identification can also be implicit.
- Identification can even be accidental.

Stanton v. Metro Corp.

Boston Magazine

“The Mating Habits of the Suburban Teenager”

- Boston Magazine published “The Mating Habits of the Suburban Teenager,” reporting an increase in teenage casual sex.

- An accompanying photo depicted five students at a high school dance.

- A disclaimer said: “The photos on these pages are from an award-winning five-year project on teen sexuality taken by photojournalist Dan Habib. The individuals pictured are unrelated to the people or events described in this story. The names of the teenagers interviewed for this story have been changed.”

“It's all pretty random. We just get together in small groups of kids and drink a lot and then hook up with whoever.” Christine, a curly-haired pixie in the under-90 weight range, chimes in. “Sometimes we'll hook up for two or three months at a time with one person. But no one really ever goes steady. Dating is just really uncommon. No one wants that kind of responsibility, you know? Most of us just go out and get drunk and whatever – hook up at someone's house.”
